Message from Father Tom:

"If Christ is preached as raised from the dead, how can some among you say there is no resurrection of the dead?" – 1 Cor 15:12

Christians in our culture have a strange tendency to separate their world into little compartments. For most of the time they live in the world of work, family, and media: where struggle, and fleeting pleasure are the norm. On the weekends for one hour a week, they live in "Bible world": where there are beautiful stories of a wise man who ended up dead and was raised up and now spends time listening to classical music in heaven.

In the ancient world, there was much greater sense of continuity--in other words, there was no separation between bible world and the real world. Christ had been raised from the dead and may have even appeared to a friend or family member. "You wouldn't believe what happened to me on the road to Emmaus the other day!" Therefore, there was a sense that at any moment--whether one was working or spending time with family--the Teacher and King and God might walk through your door.

So what does the Resurrection mean for us? For one thing, it means that there is a radical continuity with what we have heard about in the Gospel. What was done with the crucifixion has been undone in the resurrection. Christ death wasn't the end of his involvement on this planet, it was a new beginning.

"Fine, Father. Then what is Christ continuing to do?" First, Jesus said that he was establishing His Kingdom. And now he continues to establish His new Kingdom (with a king, and with laws, and many loyal servants). He continues to be with the Bishops and the successor to Peter. He calls new disciples and new prophets for the parts of the world that are not yet apart of His Kingdom. Today, we either are apart of this kingdom--and love the things of the kingdom; or we are citizens of the world (who give ourselves over to the entertainment and pleasures of this world). We either follow the King's laws and are obedient to Him, or we are rebels.

Second, He says that He has been among us and will continue to be among us and that we should follow Him. We can follow Him because we can still hear His voice even now through the priests, and through our prayer. What is Christ saying to you today?

Third, Christ has honored and continues to honor not the great ones, but the servants among us. He says that the greatest among us will be the least, and the servant of all others. He says many are deceived today who worry so much about the external things. He says that blessed are the meek and lowly. Blessed are the suffering and mourning. Blessed are those persecuted because they live differently than the rest of the world.

Finally, Christ continues to raise his faithful brothers and sisters from the dead. His followers are now going through the same passion that He has gone through (although each in his own way). They die just as He did long ago. And Christ continues to stretch his powerful hand toward them so that--without interruption--they will forever continue in the Kingdom of God.

Second Sunday of Easter Sunday of Divine Mercy April 28, 2019

*Adapted from excerpts of
The Divine Mercy Novena*

Eternal Father, Your merciful gaze is turned upon all mankind, all enfolded in the Most Compassionate Heart of Jesus. Dearest Jesus, it is your nature to have mercy on us and forgive us. From the treasury of your mercy, impart your graces in great abundance to each of us, especially those most in need. You do not refuse the light of your love to those who seek you. We place our trust in your infinite goodness. Help us be open to accept your mercy freely, and to live in it through your Holy Spirit. Receive us into the home of your Most Merciful Heart! Amen.

Please take a few minutes to sign up for the Picture Directory! The link is: <https://booknow-lifetouch.appointment-plus.com/yq0k5ppk/>. Pictures are May 1st – 4th and May 15th – 18th. They take about 10 minutes per session. We would really like everyone in our directory! If you need help, please contact Angela in the office.
